A Bit About Me

As a designer I pride myself on my creative, outstanding designs that grab the user's attention. I have become well known for my unusual concepts and out-of-the-box ideas. Click here to see some examples of my work. Throughout my school years I swam for the British Team. This required motivation, discipline and team work. This career unfortunately ended at 16 due to injury, I had always been interested in web design and had built several websites for friends and family. I decided to stop doing web design just as a hobby and make it into a career. I began doing small freelance jobs for local businesses through my website. I soon found a web agency in Bristol called Northview where I worked for 6 months in my spare time during 6th form. After finishing 6th form I began working full-time at EMO as a junior web designer. After around a year I took up a new position as a front-end web developer at a local media agency in Bath, Response One. I have a clean driving license and have never had any criminal convictions. I strongly believe in team work and that good communication is the most effective problem solver.
